Verbal Description:

This candelero fragment is made of a tan paste with large white 'rocky' inclusions. The holes do not appear to be finger shaped. They are very smooth, symmetrical, and flat bottomed. There is some fire clouding at the top of the 5 holes and the bottoms are burned. There is one whole hole and 4 parts of holes. The outside of the candelero has an incised pattern. Incised "V" shapes - a small one (branches 1.6cm long) set inside a larger one (branches 2.4cm long). There are two of these designs, set .9cm apart. Between the two "V" sets there is a piece hole going into the one whole hole - It is ambiguous whether the piece was intentional or not as it is not rounded. The outside here is fire clouded. There is no slip, brush marking, or ~~other~~ paint.
